

Corporate Quality policy

We, Fuji Electric Industry Co., Ltd. and the employees, have made continuous efforts to realize our corporate policy since a foundation of the company, and acquisition of certificate ISO9000:1994 in Feb.1997, which is one of the results of our efforts.

However, the business environment today is tough enough for us to be competitive and to survive in the future.

These are currently the most important themes of the company. Based on the understanding of these circumstances, we start a new phase of Quality Policy based on ISO9001;2000 to get the customer's satisfaction and reliance.

- 1 . Through daily sales activities, we will gain and develop customer needs and produce new and/or better products, which have an outstanding QCD and environmental performance.
- 2 . Through design and/or development review, verification, validation, procurement and process design activities, we make an effort to prevent quality problem at production stage, to say nothing of compliance of laws and/or relevant requirements and respect for customer's requirements.
- 3 . Through deep investigation of nonconformity and/or defects of claimed products, we attempt to promote activities to decrease nonconformity.
- 4 . Under the deep understanding of the requirements of ISO9001:2000, we promote a continuous improvement of conformity to the customer's requirements and effectiveness of our quality management system, considering our corporate policy and culture.
- 5 . The company will determine and provide the resources to be utilized.
- 6 . Through education and/or other opportunities the Quality Policy is to be communicated and understood within the organization.
- 7 . This Quality Policy is reviewed at a management review meeting for continuing suitability, if necessary.
